PUTTING AWAY AN OLD HUSBAND.-The poisoning of Barnabas Wagoner, at Upper Sandusky, Ohio, by a mercenary hired by the wife, is one of the most shocking events in modern criminal history. The whole account reads more like an incident of the sixteenth century, when the taking off of an individual whose existence thwarted the interests or desires of another was a matter of course. The Wagoner case illustrates the old story of the lack of harmony between May and December, but carried out to the bitter end the uncongeniality resultin & from the disparity of the ages of the mated but unmatched pair, first producing neglect and ci welty, and culminating in a desire to remove th. hated object by anticipating an event which in 'he course of nature could not have been delayed much longer. The fact that but four or five the ousand dollars—all the property owned by the unredered man—was the prize for the devilish work would encourage the notion that something other than cupidity and dislike of the husban. Used instigated the woldslike of the husban was evidence given of the man, but there was no evidence given of the existence of an "affinity." The testimony at the inquest showed that every particle of affection for Wagoner on the part of the wife had been lost, if it ever existed. She made no secret of her feelings, and had before others threatened to break her hashands needs and threatened to break her husband's neck, and penly declared that she married him only for

h is money. She hated the man but loved his pelf, and ther efore adopted, as she thought, an effectual meth od for gratifying both feelings, by putting away i he case and retaining the other. She, however, la cked the courage to personally carry out ever, la casea the courage to personally carry out her plan, but a ready instrument was at hand, in the sha ps of a Dr. Froeming, who undertook to "physic" the old husband with strychnine for the may mificent sum of $200, and that part of the arran gement was faithfully carried out, the old genti eman obediently succumbing after are doze from this madorn. Escalarian heave one dose from this modern Esculapian bravo. A brother of the woman was also, according to the doctor's confession, engaged in the dead, he having acted as the go between to settle the terms and manner of the murder. It is presumable that, had not the woman's cupidity overridden her prudence, she would now be an unencumbered young widow, to whom the few | thousand dollars for which she risked her present and future welfare would have given additional charms in the eyes of many a bucolic adof death. But when the deed was done the pay was not for heoming, and, in revenge, the disgusted doctor be rayed the whole affair, in which he appears to think he had been very much ill-used. If it do not turn out a case of simple black-mailing on the part of the doctor. simple black-mailing on the part of the doctor -though his self-crimination is altogether opposed to such a theory—the case will be worthy to rank with the most celebrated causes that ever came under judicial notice, and furnish a theme for sensational novel and dramatic writers to exercise their genius upon.

THE GREAT GEOGRAPHICAL DISCOVERY. It is evident from the highly important circular of Dr. Petermann, published yesterday, that the long perplexed and perilous problem of a way to the North Pole has been practically solved. The lustre which the discoveries of Payer and Weyprecht have just shed upon Germany will eclipse the brilliant military fame recently won by her armies on the battle fields of France. It is true we have but heard by telegr. while report the outline of what these explorer. have found in the ley, but not impenetrable, seas which roll their waters between Spitz bergen and Nova Zembla; but enough is already known to verify the discove-enough is already known to verify the discove-ries of Kane and to bear out in all their length ries of Kane and to bear out in all their length ries of Kane and to bear out in all their length and breadth of meaning the deductions of American physicists, which, for more than three years, have been urged upon the scientific world, and which so strikingly pointed the Arctic explorer to the very spot where triumph has now been won. If our trans Atlantic brethren can now rejoice, they must be willing, as they doubtless are, to share the honor of success with those who taught them where to find it, and we can rejoice with those who have reaped the first fruits of the harvest which we have sown.

When the Royal Society of London began its career the poet Cowley, in his famous "Aunus, Mirabilis, ' sung its fame in anticipation, and predicted in glowing numbers a time when it should lead men to the very verge of the

The property which would involve much an inquire which would involve much such an inquiry, which would invoice much trouble, and (unless it were unlike in inquiries such an inquiry, which would the first inquiries trouble, and (unless it were unlike the inquiries of that kind I have known) much a nuoyance. In the second place, I take no interest in the subject. The only case of "spiritualism" I subject. The only case of "spiritualism" I have had the opportunity of examining into have had the opportunity of examining had for myself, was as gross an imposture as ever came under my notice. But supposing the phenomena to be genuine they do not interest me. If anybody would endow me with the faculty of listening to the chatter of old women and curates in the nearest Cathedral town, I should decline the privilege, having better things to do. And if the folk in the spiritual things to do not talk more wisely and sensibly than world do not talk more wisely and sensibly than their friends report them to do. I put them their friends report them to do. I put them the same entergy. The only good that I in the same category. The only good that I in the same category. Reflect that a sound mind and body are the most necessary requisites to promote connubial happiness, Indeed, without these the journey through life becomes a weary pilgrimage, the prospect hourly darkens to the view, the mind becomes shadowed with despair, and filled with the me'unchiely reflection that the happiness of another is blighted with our own.

DISEASE OF IMPRUDENCE.

When emisguided and is gradent votary of pleasure inds that he has imbibed the seeds of this pair all disease, it too often happens that an this paid all disease, it too often happens that an ill-times ense of shame or dread of discovery deters him from applying to those who, from education and respectability, can alone befriend him, delaying till the constitutional symptoms of this horrid disease makes their appearance, such as alcerated sore throat, diseased nose, nocturnal pains in the head and limbs, dimness of sight, befores makes on the shift bones and arms. deafness, nodes on the shin bones and arms, blotches on the head, face and extremities, progressing with frightful rapidity, till at last the palate of the mouth or the bones of the parate of the mouth of the bones of the nose fall in, and the victim of this awith disease becomes a horrid object of commisseration till death puts a period to his dreadful suffering, by sending him to that undiscovered country from whence no traveller returns.

It is a melancholy fact that thousands D1E victims to this terrible disease, through mining into the hands of ignorant or unskina. Pagemto the hands of ignorant or unskina. Para-TENDERS, who, by the use of that deady Poison, Mercury, &c., destroy the constitution, and incapable of curing, keep the unhappy say ferer month after month taking their noxicus injurious compounds, and instead of being re-stored to a renewal of Life, Vigorand Happiness in despuir leave, him with runned Health to seek in despair leave him with ruined Health to agb over his galling disappointment.
